She Wears A Cross Upon Her Sleeve.

A SONG OF TRIBUTE

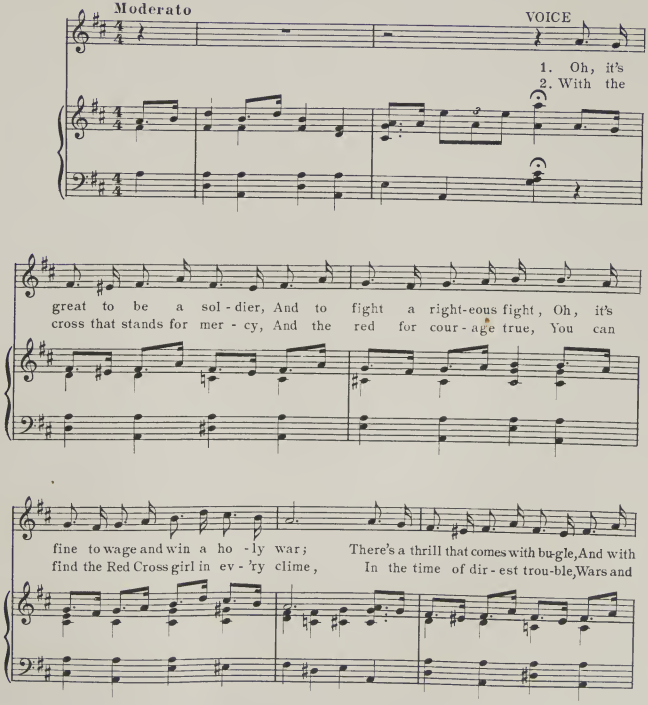
WORDS AND MUSIC
by
HARRY C. ELDRIDGE

5

Published by
ELDRIDGE ENTERTAINMENT HOUSE
FRANKLIN, OHIO. DENVER, COLO.

She Wears A Cross Upon Her Sleeve

Words & Music by
HARRY C. ELDRIDGE



Moderato
VOICE
1. Oh, it's great to be a sol - dier, And to fight a right-eous fight, Oh, it's
2. With the cross that stands for mer - cy, And the red for cour - age true, You can fine to wage and win a ho - ly war; There's a thrill that comes with bu-gle, And with find the Red Cross girl in ev - 'ry clime, In the time of dir - est trou-ble, Wars and Copyright MCMXVII by Harry C. Eldridge.

all the trap - ings bright, And the un - seen dan - gers ev - er there in oth - er tri - als too, There her cour - age and her tact is most sub - store. But it's not of boys in kha - ki, Or in nat - ty na - vy blue, That we lime. She has sev-ered all her home-ties, All her friends she leaves behind, For a sing this song of pride and well-earned praise; But of girls in spot-less lin - en, And with work that tax - es heart and wearied hands; Here's a toast to her, God bless her, May she hearts so kind and true, With a thou-sand ten - der traits and win-ning ways.
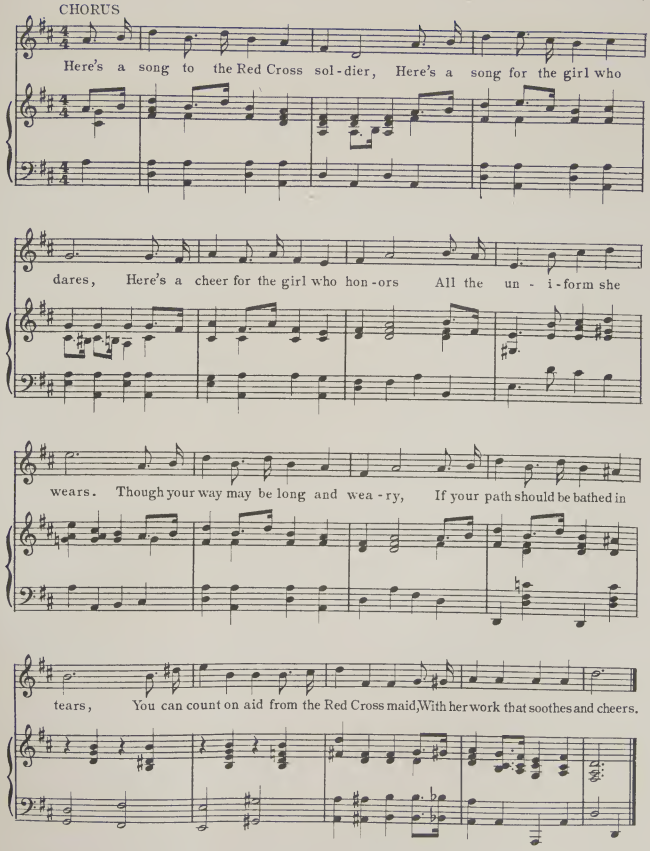
have blest peace of mind, Here's a trib - ute from our own, the best of lands.



CHORUS
Here's a song to the Red Cross sol-dier, Here's a song for the girl who dares, Here's a cheer for the girl who hon-ors All the un - i-form she wears. Though your way may be long and wea-ry, If your path should be bathed in tears, You can count on aid from the Red Cross maid, With her work that soothes and cheers.